SECRETARY of Defense Charles E. Wilson on 2 October held his 80th and farewell news conference and prepared to leave office after a tour of duty that began in January 1953.

He arrived at the Pentagon to lead a "New Look" revamping of the Armed Forces.

He leaves at a time when the Services

"Sara" In Action; List New Regulars

The mighty USS Saratoga was put through a stiff test during Exercise Strike Back in the Norwegian Sea.

A JOURNAL representative covered the huge NATO seapower test aboard the 60,000 ton carrier.

His reports on Pages, 2, 3, 6, 11 and 17, which tell behind-the-scenes details of how this ship fights and how her crew lives, follow earlier stories of Strike Back action in the 21 and 28 September issues.

MOST MANPOWER NEWS in the Services is on the negative side these days, in the face of tough budget cuts, but the Army and Air Force had bright news for more than 1000 Reserve officers this week. They have been chosen for Regular billets. The Army list of 403 new Regulars is published on Page 3; an Air Force list of 645 new permanent majors begins on Page 9.

SAC'S NEW COMMAND IN SPAIN,

the Sixteenth Air Force, is the subject of a special report—there's also a map of Defense Department installations in Spain—by its Commander, Maj. Gen. Henry K. Mooney, USAF, on Page 11. The recent activation of the Sixteenth has increased markedly SAC's global striking power. General Mooney tells of the Sixteenth's major units and their commanders.

are undergoing major changes, not because of revised defense concepts or reduced requirements, but because of a tight budget pinch.

The Army is dropping major combat units. The Air Force is losing squadrons; wing cuts are coming. The Navy is getting set to mothball additional ships. The Marine Corps must work out a scheme to man its three divisions and three air wings with a 10 per cent manpower reduction.

As Secretary Wilson was meeting with Pentagon newsmen on Wednesday and preparing for an all-Service retreat at Ft. Myer, Va., 3 October, the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps were driving hard to cut manpower and get within revised budget limits.

THE ARMY, in an unusual Sunday announcement, confirmed on 29 September that the new slash would cost an additional division, dropping the total number of tactical divisions to 15.

The Army said the division to be eliminated would be an armored division in the United States, but did not identify it. THE JOURNAL said last week that the 1st Armored Division would be cut.

The 1st Armored is located at Ft. Polk,

La. It was erroneously placed at Ft. Hood, Tex., in last week's story. The 4th Armored Division, preparing for duty in Germany, is at Hood.

THE AIR FORCE has announced that it will lose 10 Reserve and three Air National Guard squadrons, but this is only the beginning of new cutbacks.

The Air Force will probably drop five wings below its revised goal of 128 before the end of the current fiscal year. Instead of 925,000 officers and airmen, the Air Force will have only 875,000.

To reach its new manpower levels, thousands of Air Force personnel will be released early—in some cases by up to a year.

THE NAVY as THE JOURNAL went to press had yet to spell out specific details of its new reductions. With the windup of NATO naval tests, the Navy will take a look at its fleet units and decide which ships will be "mothballed."

PACIFIC COMMANDERS — Admiral Felix B. Stump, Commander-in-Chief, Pacific Command, was in Korea last week for a visit with military and diplomatic leaders. He is shown here with General George H. Decker, Commander-in-Chief, United Nations Command, Commander U. S. Forces, Korea and Commanding General Eighth U. S. Army.

U.S. May Have to Back Auto Liability Insurance Abroad, Rep. Brooks Says

PARIS, FRANCE

NEW legislation giving government backing to automobile liability insurance for American Servicemen overseas may become necessary to ease the tension over Status of Forces Agreements, Representative Overton Brooks (D-La.), told a JOURNAL representative here.

Representative Brooks, accompanied by Mr. Charles F. Ducander of the professional staff of the Armed Services Committee, was just completing a tour of more than a month of American installations in Europe and Africa.

He told THE JOURNAL that he was very much impressed with the operation of U. S. Forces over here, but believes they need further support in the areas of Status of Forces Agreements and family housing.

MR. BROOKS SAID that 80 to 95 per cent of the legal cases involving American Service personnel under Status of Forces Agreements arise from automobile accidents. When a satisfactory out-of-court settlement can be reached there is no difficulty. But when the U.S. litigant has no insurance he becomes involved in foreign courts with whose legal procedures and antecedents he is entirely unfamiliar.

Congressman Brooks explained that while regulations require that Servicemen abroad have automobile liability insurance it is not always possible to secure it.

Many U.S. insurance companies that formerly insured citizens abroad have lately withdrawn from the field saying it is unprofitable. Many foreign companies, on the other hand, will not insure temporary residents.

"I am thoroughly in favor of relying on private enterprise in situations such as this," Mr. Brooks told THE JOURNAL. "However," if American soldiers, sailors and airmen are unable to buy suitable liability insurance from commercial companies then the government must step in and give them the protection they must have."

ANOTHER PROBLEM that arises under the Status of Forces Agreements, he said, is that of the loss of witnesses. A number of cases have come up, he said, in which an American becomes involved in foreign courts but before his case comes up for trial his American defense witnesses are ordered back to the States. Without his defense witnesses, Mr. Brooks said, such a person is quite liable to suffer unjustified penalties. He believes that the Department of Defense should administratively protect such persons by extending the overseas tours of witnesses.

In the area of family housing, Mr. Brooks said there has been appreciable improvement over recent years, but there are still great shortages. In Spain, France, and England, particularly he said, American Servicemen must compete in the open market for housing which is expensive and inadequate. He is not sure what the ultimate solution should be, but he and Mr. Ducander will work on the problem and try to come up with some adequate solution before the next session of Congress.

THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE

Washington 25, D. C.

October 1, 1957

Dear Mr. Whitman:

I understand that I am not the only person making a move at this time since word comes to me that THE JOURNAL recently moved into a new building.

Before I leave the Pentagon, I want to wish your fine publication continued success in its new home and in its effort to keep the members of the Armed Forces and their families informed of news relating to national defense.

With kindest regards

Sincerely,

C. E. Wilson

Stars Fall On Army

An Army selection board will meet 15 October to pick permanent major generals.

The zone includes all permanent brigadier generals on the Army Promotion List at the time the board convenes.

There will be about 100 eligible officers. Turn to page 4 for a list of 53 permanent brigadier general selections.

Weather Can Be Key To Power In Northern Waters; Strike Back Tests Forecasting

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
IN THE NORWEGIAN SEA

- Every morning and every evening, he briefs RAdm. Clifford S. Cooper, Commander Carrier Striking Group One, on the weather outlook. Intermediate reports are made if called for or if Lieutenant Reider feels changes warrant it.

- Every morning and evening he gives similar briefings to Capt. Robert B. Moore, skipper of the Sara.

- Every hour he presents the Air Operations office with the latest analysis of the weather.

- Every morning and evening, he confers by radio with the other meteorologists aboard many of the bigger NATO ships in this fleet.

- Every hour he receives reports from England, Norway, and Germany.

- Periodically, he receives reports from other nations, including Russia, who report as members of the World Meteorological Association.

- Every six hours, he reports to the nearest applicable U. S. Navy shore installation, in this case Port Lyauzey in North Africa.

- Periodically, he files reports to the National Weather Records Center at Asheville, N. C.

IN HIS SPARE TIME he works on a report which he must submit when the fleet reaches Portsmouth, England, commenting on how the meteorological system has operated during Exercise Strike Back.

To assist him in this gigantic task, Lieutenant Reider has a staff of 12 men and an array of meteorological instruments equal to a major Weather Bureau Station.

Lieutenant Reider is busy (he has averaged only two hours sleep in 24 during Strike Back), but he is only a cog in a busy system, for one of the objectives of these big NATO fleet exercises is to test the capacity of the various national meteorological services to give the support needed for the most effective operation of the naval forces of Allied Command Atlantic.

ADVANCE WARNINGS of weather changes can be used with telling effect, both in offensive and defensive naval operations. The meteorological services of NATO, working as a team, can supply this information, but their efforts need careful coordination. This coordination is provided by the Standing Group Meteorological Committee, whose meetings at SACIANT headquarters, Norfolk, are attended by representatives of all the major NATO commands.

Operations in these northern waters are greatly influenced by the weather. Climatological records indicate that carrier aircraft operations in certain areas are extremely difficult, if not impossible, 25 to 30 per cent of the time. Parts of the area are noted for the remarkably persistent gale force winds. The average gale persistence is of nine hours. In March 1930, to take an extreme case, the wind blew at gale force (above 35 knots) for almost five consecutive days in the Jan Mayen area.

This region is one of the cloudiest in the world, as these northern waters are to some extent, the graveyard of the Atlantic depressions, with frontal systems in various stages of decay covering the area.

Fog is frequent, but with a reasonable density of reports, it is predictable.

For realistic planning and execution of naval and air operations, it is essential that full tactical advantage should be taken of the variable weather conditions, and to this end adequate meteorological support (multiplying Lieutenant Reider's operation many times) must be provided.

ALL SHIPS IN THIS FLEET make some type of weather reports. On small ships, which do not have meteorologists, readings are taken and information gathered and reported by the Quartermaster.

On the USS Northampton, command ship of VAdm. Robert B. Pirie, Commander Striking Force Atlantic, both American and British meteorologists operate. On the USS Forrestal, flagship of RAdm. Murr E. Arnold, Commander Carrier Striking Force, there are two U. S. and one Norwegian meteorologists. Ships of all the other nations engaged, have, of course, their own weather men.

Lieutenant Reider came into the weather field through aviation. He is a career navy man who enlisted at the age of 17. During the war he was on antisubmarine patrols in the Atlantic and Caribbean. He won his wings at Pensacola in 1945, serving later on the carrier USS Cabot. After flying torpedo bombers, he studied meteorology at the Naval Post Graduate School, Monterey, Calif.

A native of Elizabethtown, Pa., Lieutenant Reider married a Texas girl. He and his wife, Jeane, now make their home at Atlantic Beach, Fla., with their 12 year old daughter, Jeane, and five year old son, Richard Earl.

RAdm. Miller, AntiSub Commander, Praised For Protecting Fleet; URG Also Lauded

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
IN THE NORWEGIAN SEA

FOLLOWING passage of the main Fleet through the Iceland-Faeroes Gap VAdm. Robert B. Pirie, USN, Commander of NATO's Striking Force Atlantic, was warm in his praise for the work of anti-submarine planes and destroyers under command of RAdm. William Miller, USN.

Also complimented was the "smart work" of VAdm. Manley L. Power, RN, Commander Carrier Striking Group Two, and his men for their operations against Shore Based attacking aircraft.

Admiral Pirie also made special mention of the work of Capt. M. C. Norvell, USN, commander of the Underway Replenishment Group which includes the Denebola, Hyades, five oilers and two ammunition ships. The URG has kept all vessels of the fleet constantly supplied with fuel, ammunition, spare parts and food.

This carrier alone, for example, took aboard 1,400,000 gallons of fuel of oil in a single underway replenishment. Food, too, is a great item. Up to 21 September the 40,000 U.S. men with the fleet had consumed 1,200,000 pounds of potatoes and

EAST ATLANTIC SHORT

LONDON, ENGLAND

ADMIRAL Jerauld Wright, USN, SACIANT commander, told the British newsmen here on his return from visits with French leaders in Brest, that he is in agreement with Admiral Sir John Eccles, of the Royal Navy, that there are serious quantitative deficiencies in the Allied Naval defenses in the East Atlantic areas.

Admiral Wright said that with the U. S. and Canadian fleets based in the West Atlantic, an outbreak of war would find the East Atlantic forces deficient in the early and critical days of war.

Admiral Eccles and his RAF counterpart, Air Marshal Sir Bryan Reynolds, he said, would be sorely pressed in the early days of any conflict. This situation has been well realized, he stated, and did not need Exercise Strike Back to bring it out.

With the U. S. already maintaining fleets in the Mediterranean and the Far East, Admiral Wright said, it would require a high level decision to base additional forces in the East Atlantic.

ANC History Published

The history of the Army Nurse Corps from the Civil War to the present has been published in the book "The Army Nurse Corps—Yesterday and Today," prepared for the ANC by Miss Mary M. Roberts.

Col. Inez Haynes, ANC Chief, has written the foreword of the 50-page book which concludes with "The Prayer of an Army Nurse" by Lt. Col. Mildred L. Clark, Director of Nurse Procurement in the Office of the Army Surgeon General.

Active in both military and civilian nursing for over 50 years, Miss Roberts is the author of many nursing publications and was editor of the American Journal of Nursing for over 30 years.

Military Medical Notes

CAPT. JOHN B. MAC GREGOR, USN is the new Chief of Medicine at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bethesda, Md. Formerly Chief of Medicine at the Chelsea, Mass., Naval Hospital, he succeeds Capt. Ralph C. Parker, Jr., USN, Ret. With his wife and three children, Captain MacGregor resides at Quarters D, National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

THE ARMY MEDICAL SERVICE SCHOOL at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., will place four new instructors on its staff upon their completion of training at the Academic Training Unit. They are: Lieutenant Colonels John E. Burns, John E. Trenholm, Roy A. Bryan, and Seth E. Linthicum, Jr.

In the Department of Military Sciences, Colonel Burns will be Chief of the General Subjects Branch, Colonel Trenholm will be Chief of the Staff and Logistics Branch, and Colonel Bryan will be a logistical instructor. Colonel Linthicum will be an instructor in hospital administration in the Department of Administration.

Colonel Burns was recently assigned to the Medical Division of U. S. Army, Europe. A graduate of the Command and General Staff College at Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., Colonel Trenholm has served in the office of the Surgeon General and as Chief of the Supply Branch of the Medical Division with U. S. Army, Europe. Colonel Bryan, also a graduate of the Command and General Staff College, was assistant Chief of the Career Planning Branch of the Personnel Division in the Surgeon General's Office, Washington, D. C. Colonel Linthicum has been with the Medical Plans and Operations Division in the Surgeon General's Office.

LT. COL. HAROLD P. LARSON, MSC USA, is the new Chief of Directives and Policies Branch, Medical Plans and Operations Division in Washington, D. C. He will be responsible for recommendations on future policies and changes in existing policies and plans affecting operation or organization of the Medical Service. Colonel and Mrs. Larson, with their two daughters, live at 3368 N. Dickerson Street, Arlington, Va.

NEXT WEEK—

ROCKET ERA AVIATION MEDICINE is the subject of an up-to-the-minute report by Maj. Gen. Otis O. Benson, jr., USAF (MC), Commandant of the School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph AFB, Tex., scheduled for publication in the 12 October issue.

MARINE CORPS EFFORTS to preserve and exhibit Leatherneck history will be told in a special report by a JOURNAL representative following a visit to the Marine Corps Schools at Quantico, Va.

MORE STORIES AND COMMENTS on the NATO naval exercises will be another highlight of the 12 October issue of THE JOURNAL.

Col. Dean 3d Division G-3

Col. Raymond Lee Dean, former Commanding Officer of the 2d Marine Division's 2d Marine Regiment, is the new Assistant Chief of Staff G-3 for the Third Marine Division, Camp Courtney, Okinawa.

He succeeds Col. Daniel C. Pollock assigned to Fleet Marine Force Pacific in Hawaii.

Army Names 403 For Regular Commissions, List Includes One Captain, 27 First Lts.

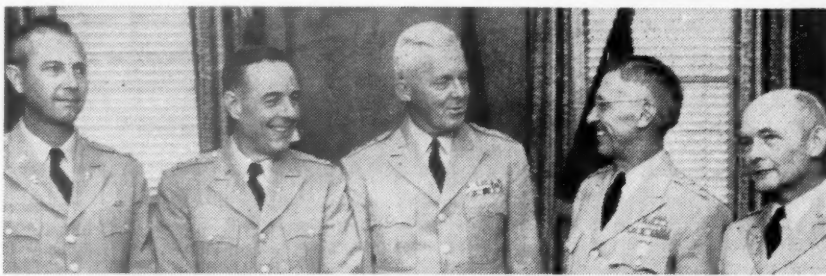

THE following are the names of 403 Army officers selected for Regular commissions—the second augmentation list. An earlier increment, confirmed by the Senate, gave Regular ranks to 1,032 Reserve officers.

The new list contains the names of one captain, who is a temporary major; 27 first lieutenants, who are serving in that rank; and 375 second lieutenants, a large number of them serving as first lieutenants, one of them a captain.

This list gives the officers' names and the branch of appointment. Where no rank is given, the appointment was in the grade of second lieutenant.

An asterisk before an officer's name indicates that he is serving in higher temporary grade. In one instance, there is a double asterisk—before the name of Capt. Everett J. Poindexter, who received a Regular commission as a second lieutenant.

ARMY AIR DEFENDERS—Progress in a variety of fields affecting Army air defense operations was discussed in a meeting of Army Ordnance and Redstone Arsenal representatives in Colorado Springs, Colo., with Lt. Gen. S. R. Mickelsen (center), commander of the Army Air Defense Command, at Ent AFB. Left to right are Lt. Col. F. E. Napper, chief of the Field Service Division, Redstone Arsenal; Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, chief of the Research and Development Division, Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Department of the Army; Maj. Gen. H. N. Toftoy, Commanding General, Redstone Arsenal; and Col. M. R. Collins, Jr., Chief of the Research and Development Division, Redstone Arsenal.

Skyraider (With Air-NG Officer Aboard) Makes 9,000th Landing on Saratoga

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
IN THE NORWEGIAN SEA

A DOUGLAS AD-5W Skyraider of VAW-12 returning from a night patrol during Exercise Strike Back made the 9,000th landing aboard this carrier.

According to custom, the ship's baker presented a cake to the pilot, LCDr. James E. Boyle, who also is the officer in charge of the unit.

By a strange happenstance, an Air Force officer was in the right hand seat when the landing was made—Capt. James C. Elliott of 149th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, Air National Guard. Captain Elliott is covering Strike Back for the Norfolk Ledger Star and was invited to go on the patrol in his capacity as a correspondent.

Third crew member was AT1 James Weidinger.

Although one of the oldest aircraft models in active use in the Navy, the single engine propeller driven ADS are kept constantly in the air. First delivered to the Navy in 1946, the 20,000 pound planes are powered by Wright R-3350 engines. In addition to their primary function as attack aircraft (they can carry up to 10,000 pounds in bombs), specially equipped ADS are used for patrol missions, radar countermeasures, antisubmarine work, and many other functions. They can attack targets up to 750 miles away and return to their carriers.

In a recent press briefing, Cdr. Douglas A. Clark, Operations Officer on the staff of RAdm. C. S. Cooper, Commander Carrier Striking Group One, said that one of the Fleet's most difficult problems is the detection of low flying enemy attack planes and "snoopers" which approach too low for normal radar detection. Thus far, he said, the ADS, with their capability for flying lower and slower than the jets or the bigger multi-engine patrol planes, have proved their most valuable tool against low-level attacks.

Special Illinois Election

A special election will be held by the 7th Congressional District of Illinois to fill the vacancy in the House of Representatives caused by the death of James B. Bolwer.

The primary election will be held 12 November, the general election on 31 December. Armed Forces officers and men who wish to cast votes can obtain details from their Voting Officers.

Journal Moves To New D. C. Address

THE ARMY NAVY AIR FORCE JOURNAL moved this week to a five-story building at 1710 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

THE JOURNAL had been located for more than two decades in a building across the street at 1711 Connecticut Avenue.

The move was made necessary, it was announced by Publisher Robert Hyde Ames, because of expansion of the editorial, advertising and circulation departments.

THE JOURNAL has been published each week since its establishment in 1863.

The phone number at the new JOURNAL home is HOBart 2-1220.

Leavenworth Billets, Other Colonels Move

Two Colonels have been appointed to fill major billets at the Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans.

New Executive Assistant to the Assistant Commandant of the College is Col. John F. Franklin, Jr., who formerly served as Secretary of the College and Assistant to the Assistant to the Assistant Commandant for Resident Instruction. The son of Col. (USA-Ret.) and Mrs. John F. Franklin of Morristown, Tenn., he resides with his wife and son at 612 Scott, Ft. Leavenworth.

COL. JAMES L. FRINK, former CofS at USARCARB Headquarters, Panama, Canal Zone, was named Assistant to the Assistant Commandant for Resident Instruction. Colonel and Mrs. Frink, with their five children, live at Ft. Leavenworth.

At Ft. Sill, Okla., four colonels took over new assignments to head Operations, G-3, OCS, and Dental Surgeon's Office.

COL. STUART F. CRAWFORD, former G-3 of the Artillery and Missile Center will coordinate plans and training as the new Operations Officer. A second officer will be named to coordinate logistics activities. COL. THOMAS J. BADGER, former executive officer of the section, replaces Colonel Crawford as G-3. New commandant of the Officers Candidate School is COL. WILLIAM J. GALLAGHER, who recently commanded the 41st Field Artillery Group. COL. WILLARD L. NIELSEN, recently arrived from Europe, will take over as post Dental Surgeon.

COL. RAY K. BANNISTER, formerly assigned to SHAPE, was named Commanding Officer of the Brooklyn Army Terminal to replace Col. Robert C. Hanes who was separated from the military service.

COL. JOHN R. DALE, former DA Assistant Chief of Transportation for Aviation, has taken command of the 8th Transportation Group, Seventh Army Air Transportation Wing, Germany.

COL. FRANCIS M. CLARK, former Fourth Army Deputy Chief of Personnel and Administration, is the new PMST at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. Colonel Clark and his family reside at 615 University, West Lafayette, Ind.

COL. NOEL A. MENARD, former Commander of the 77th Special Forces Group, Ft. Bragg, N. C., was appointed PMST at Seton Hall University, South Orange, N. J. He resides with his wife and two daughters at Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Army Drops Division; Other Units Cut

The Army announced further reductions in Army troop units to remain within the strength ceiling of 900,000 to be met by 30 June, 1958.

The Army will cut its manpower by 71,000 before 1 Jan., 1958, and an additional 29,000 by next 30 June.

"In order to maintain maximum combat strength, manpower reductions are being concentrated to the extent possible among personnel engaged in administrative, logistical and specialized activities," a Pentagon announcement said.

Following are the additional reductions and changes in the Army Force structure:

One Armored Combat Command of 5,000 men will be substituted for one of the two Armored Divisions in the United States. The strength of an Armored Division is approximately 14,600.

Fourteen air defense battalions will be eliminated. These will be either gun or Skysweeper units, the need for which is gradually lessening with the progressive introduction of new Army air defense missile units.

Five Aviation Construction Engineer battalions will be dropped. Construction requirements of the Air Force have fallen off.

The Regimental Combat Team in Panama will be reduced in size to one battle group.

The Pentagon statement added:

"In the adjustment to the new manpower ceilings, the number of troops at certain posts, camps and training stations will necessarily reduce, thereby making it necessary to phase down or close some of these installations. This matter is under intensive study by the Army and results will be announced shortly."

Col. Diercks Heads Map Unit

Col. Frederick O. Diercks has taken command of the Army Map Service, Corps of Engineers, Washington, D. C., succeeding Col. Julian D. Abell, who will become Deputy Engineer for U. S. Army, Europe at Heidelberg, Germany.

Colonel Diercks was formerly Chief of the Intelligence Division, Troop Operations, Office of the Chief of Engineers.

Colonel and Mrs. Diercks and their two children live at 513 Shadeland Drive, Falls Church, Va.

MISSILE MASTER CREWS HEAD FOR SCHOOL

A temporary school for Army crews who will man the Missile Master system of firepower coordination of Army Air Defense Command guided missile batteries has been established at Ft. Meade, Md.

The school, which will be moved to Orlando, Fla., after the first class finishes its training, will be conducted by the Martin Company, principal contractor for the Missile Master.

More than 100 officers and men will be enrolled in the first class of the school, which begins 14 October. These men will form the nucleus of a 135-man Missile Master team in the Washington-Baltimore area when the system becomes operational in the near future.

The system will be installed in other key defenses as rapidly as equipment and trained operator personnel become available.

The Missile Master is a complete, semi-automatic system for the coordination of all Army anti-aircraft weapons, including the Nike-Ajax, Nike-Hercules and Hawk.

Secretary Wilson, Joined By His "Jessie," Says Farewell To Pentagon Press; Cites "Realism," Missile Problem

SECRETARY of Defense Charles E. Wilson, at his farewell news conference, summed up Armed Forces accomplishments during his more than 4½ years in office and said he "hoped he had injected some realism" into the job.

The Secretary, whose resignation was accepted by President Eisenhower on 2 October, to be effective next week, said "a great deal remains to be done."

Mr. Wilson cited "the missile business" in reference to the controversy over the Air Force Thor and the Army Jupiter IRBM's—the problem of developing an anti-missile missile and the rate of expenditures among the Services.

The departing Secretary said that during his term of office there has been improvement in the business organization of the Department and further that much waste and duplication of effort has been eliminated.

MR. WILSON, ACCOMPANIED at his final conference by his wife, whom he introduced to the press as "Jessie," said there is no reason to believe Secretary McElroy "thinks any differently on the problem of defense spending than I do."

Secretary Wilson said he was pleased with Mr. McElroy's appointment and "happy that he is another business man."

Complimented by a reporter for his frankness, Mr. Wilson quipped: "It has been a little bit of a game." He said he expected the new Secretary to be frank in his dealing with the public.

Mrs. Wilson answered a question for the Secretary when he was asked about his feelings concerning a meeting with the Soviet Defense Minister, Marshal Zhukov.

Mrs. Wilson said she would like to see such a meeting.

The Secretary said, "I've never taken it very seriously." He attributed Mrs. Wilson's answer to the fact that she has an "adventurous spirit and probably would like to take a trip to Russia."

ON THE THOR-JUPITER CONTROVERSY, the Secretary said a final decision will not be made before he leaves office. He said that only about 10 per cent of the total number of flights needed to evaluate the relative merits of the missiles have been made.

The plan of merging the two missiles, said the Secretary, "has just about been eliminated."

Asked if the Service Chiefs had told him they can't operate effectively as a result of manpower cuts, Secretary Wilson said he did not "blame them for believing in their own Services."

Military people, Mr. Wilson continued, "feel that they are at a minimum."

THE SECRETARY SAID he did not know whether additional cuts would be made, since he could not forecast the fiscal '59 budget.

Secretary Wilson opened his news conference by revealing that preliminary estimates for September spending show that the Defense Department expenditures for the first quarter of fiscal '58 will be close to $10.4 billion, or $300 million over the planned $38 billion ceiling set for the entire fiscal year.

The Secretary said he was "hopeful" that the $300 million would be picked up in the second quarter of the fiscal year.

The September figure, he said, was $100 million under the previous month and "shows that the trend toward increased spending has been stopped."

When Secretary Wilson departed with Mrs. Wilson at the end of the news conference, reporters and observers gave the pair a round of applause.

They End Careers

COL. HOUSTON V. EVANS, USA, in the Office of the DC/S for Logistics, Department of the Army, retired after more than 22 years service. His home is at 5110 Brookway Drive, Massachusetts Ave. Hills, Washington, D. C.

COL. ELMER A. LODMELL, USA, stationed at Walter Reed Army Hospital, Washington, D. C., retired after more than 24 years service. He lives at 161 Ireland Drive, Forest Glen, Washington.

COL. ROBERT E. PEYTON, USA, Army Medical Service Board, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, retired after 28 years service. His home is at 9417 Russell Road, Silver Spring, Md.

COL. WILLIAM R. ROBINETTE, USA, stationed in the Office of Special Warfare, Department of the Army, retired after 30 years service. He lives at 3112 Key Blvd., Arlington, Va.

80TH CONFERENCE

Secretary Wilson's news conference on 2 October—his last—was the 80th meeting he has held with reporters at the Pentagon since taking office in January 1953.

The Secretary also has held numerous other sessions with newsmen, including several widely publicized lawn-side sessions last year under a tree at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va., during the annual Secretaries Conference.

Pentagon reporters have been impressed with Secretary Wilson's willingness to meet with them frequently to account to the Nation in forthright fashion on defense matters. Probably no other official in recent Washington history has resorted so few times to evasive or "no comment" answers.

He will be missed by Pentagon newsmen, who lose an official who always gave straight answers and whose answers so often made lively copy.

Gen. McDaniel To IG

Maj. Gen. Edward H. McDaniel, Director of Manpower Operations, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel, has been assigned to the Office of the Army Inspector General. He reports in December.

Brig. Gen. Frederick C. Waite, Commanding General, Letterkenny Ordnance Depot, Chambersburg, Pa., will become Assistant Chief of Ordnance for Manpower in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance in November.

Navy Seeks Applicants For Supply Corps Billets

The Navy is seeking applications from Line officers below the rank of lieutenant commander for transfer to the Supply Corps.

To be eligible officers must have a date of rank of 2 July 1954, or earlier. Applications are not being sought from Limited Duty Officers, or from permanently commissioned warrant officers.

All applicants must submit their requests in time to reach the Bureau of Naval Personnel by 4 Feb. 1958. The Chief of Naval Personnel will acknowledge applications and retain them on file for consideration by a selection board which will be convened on 28 February.

Those selected will be sent to the Navy Supply Corps School, Athens, Ga., for about six months. Complete details of the program are contained in BuPers Notice 1210.

ATOMIC NURSE

A Navy Nurse, Lt. Leonore Simon, is enrolled in a nine months training course in clinical application of radioisotopes at the Naval Medical School, National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md.

She is the first nurse to undergo training in this field since the school's beginning in 1948.

Shortly after completion of her training in June 1958, Lieutenant Simon will instruct other nurses desiring to go into the field of nuclear medicine.

Navy Boards Select Line LCdrs. And Lts.

Selection boards to choose active duty Line officers for the ranks of lieutenant commander and lieutenant will convene on 15 and 29 October.

The lieutenant commander's board will consider all lieutenants, with the exception of Limited Duty Officers, whose dates of rank are 1 July 1954 or earlier.

Eligible LDO's are those in or senior to the promotion zone which extends from Lt. John W. Berry, Signal No. 16-591, through Lt. Albert J. Monger, Signal No. 18,590, in the 1 Jan. 1957 Regular Register. The junior Reserve officer in the zone is Lt. Philip C. Krouse, lineal position 050,197 in the 1955 Reserve Register.

The lieutenant board, which meets on 29 Oct., will consider the records of all Line lieutenants (jg), excluding LDO's, whose dates of rank are 1 July 1956 and earlier. Eligible LDO's are those in and above the promotion zone.

The zone ends with the junior Regular or Reserve officer whose date of rank is 16 Dec. 1955.

On the same dates, boards to pick Regular Navy Line WAVES will meet.

The WAVE lieutenant commander's board will consider women lieutenants with dates of rank of 1 July 1954 and earlier, while the WAVE lieutenant's board will consider lieutenants (jg) with dates of rank of 1 Jan 1956 and earlier.

Capt. Addison Named

RAdm. Bartholomew W. Hogan, Surgeon General of the Navy, has appointed Capt. James A. Addison, MC, as Head, General Planning Branch of the Bureau.

Prior to assuming his new duties Captain Addison served as Division Surgeon with the 3d Marine Division, Fleet Marine Force, Pacific.

Captain Addison is relieving Capt. R. Penington, Jr., MC, who will assume duties as a Navy Member of the Armed Services Medical Materiel Coordination Committee.

"Grim Reapers" Reap Honors In Skyrays

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
NORWEGIAN SEA

THE "Grim Reapers," all weather fighter squadron, is being praised aboard this carrier for having set a high mark of performance among carrier fighter squadrons.

The Reapers, officially VF-101, fly F4D-1 Skyrays built by the Santa Monica Division of the Douglas Aircraft Co. They are under command of Cdr. Robert J. Witmer and are stationed at NAS Jacksonville, Fla.

In the first three days of Exercise Strike Back, they flew 61 sorties and 93.7 hours. In one day, 12 pilots flew a total of 31 sorties for 40.6 hours. During that period, the Reapers were credited with two "enemy" aircraft.

In addition to flying cover for the Fleet, they also made air strikes against targets in Denmark and England.

Marine Corps Gives Stripes to Thousands

Marine Corps Headquarters will give additional stripes to 25,385 enlisted men during November, December and January.

Col. Donald J. Robinson, Head, General Supply Branch, G-4, HQMC is serving as senior member of a 15-officer board which is in session to choose 588 technical sergeants for advancement to six-stripe rank and 1,043 staff sergeants for five stripes.

In addition, promotions to the next higher rank will be given to 1,754 sergeants, 5,000 corporals and 17,000 privates first class during the same three months.

Selections to staff sergeant, sergeant and corporal will be made by local commanding officers on the basis of cutting scores made by men on recent examinations.

VAdm. Ingersoll Wins DSM

VAdm. Stuart Ingersoll, USN, President, Naval War College, Newport, R. I., has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for services while serving in the two-hat position as Commander, Seventh Fleet, and Commander, U. S. Taiwan Defense Command from December 1955 to June 1957.

CMC Appointed For Two More Years

President Eisenhower has named General Randolph McC. Pate for reappointment as Commandant of the Marine Corps for an additional two years, starting 1 Jan. 1958.

The appointment is subject to confirmation by the Senate when Congress reconvenes.

General Pate, 21st Commandant of the Corps, assumed his duties on 1 Jan. 1956, succeeding General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., who became Chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board.

Before General Pate's initial appointment for a two-year period, all Marine Commandants had been appointed for four year terms.

Extension of General Pate's tour will make the tenure of office of the Marine Commandant coincide with that of other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, General Pate, has been a Marine officer for 37 years. Before becoming a Leatherneck, he had a brief tour of enlisted service in the U. S. Army in 1918.

He is married to the former Mary E. Bunting of Winnipeg, Canada.

Navy Assigns Eight To Sub Skipper Class

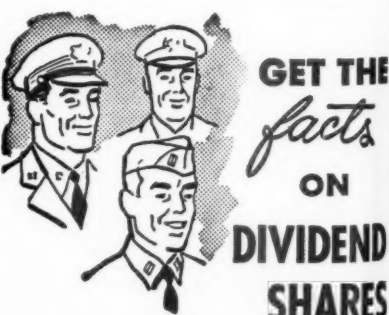

The Navy has assigned eight officers to the Prospective Submarine Commanding Officers Course, Pacific Fleet Submarine Force Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, T. H.

Conducted by Cdr. George C. Cook, Force Tactical Development Officer, the "PCO School" trains officers in tactics for underwater approach and attack, as well as in new weapon firing systems. The future submarine commanders attend two weeks of lectures, followed by three weeks of intensive operations at sea.

Those attending are:

Lieutenant Commanders George L. Klug, on the Staff of Submarine Squadron Three; Lieutenants Robert L. Murrill, from the USS Sea Fox; Harry B. Ellis, from the USS Taton; Joseph Talago, Jr., from the USS Carbonero; Jack Brown, from the USS Diodon; John N. Howard from the USS Razorback, and C. H. Lowry, Jr., from the Staff, Submarine Squadron Seven; and, Lieutenant (jg) J. F. O'Connell, from the USS Calman.

Graduation ceremonies are scheduled for 18 October.

AF Will Consider More Than 15,000 In Reserve

More than 15,000 Air Force Reserve officers not on active duty will be considered for promotion early next year. Preparations are now under way at the Air Reserve Records Center, Denver, Colo., for convening of promotion selection boards.

The promotions will include the upgradings of Air Force Reserve First Lieutenants, Captains and Majors. Some 2,000 Air Reserve officers will be considered for the second time. They are part of the 30,000 Reserve officers considered for promotion last year.

According to current plans a selection board for consideration of Reserve Major promotions is expected to convene next January, Captains in February, and First Lieutenants in March.

A selection board for promotion of eligible Air Reserve Lieutenant Colonels is scheduled to convene late next April. The board will consider all Reserve Lieutenant Colonels, including those on active duty, with a promotion service date on or before 30 June, 1949.

It is estimated about 5,000 Reserve Lieutenant Colonels will be eligible. Last year 208 Reserve Lieutenant Colonels were promoted.

Promotion of Air Reserve Second Lieutenants will continue on a quarterly basis.

Bennie Thomas, known as the dean of Air Force aerial reconnaissance cameramen, has retired at Wright-Patterson Air Development Center, Ohio, after more than 40 years devoted to airborne photography. He has flown over 10,000 hours.

RIF Action Spreads In Budget Squeeze

The Air Force has taken action to prevent uneconomical permanent change of station movement of officers, warrant officers and airmen, when units or bases are inactivated or units geographically relocated.

As a result, many additional officers will be released involuntarily, some by as much as 11 months early.

The Air Force has announced that officers within six months of date of separation as of the date of unit move or inactivation will be involuntarily released from extended active duty "unless valid requirement exists at present station."

Officers who have more than six months and less than 12 until DOS will be reported to USAF Headquarters for determination of whether reassignment or involuntary release from extended active duty will be affected.

Officers who have more than 12 months remaining service until DOD as of scheduled date of unit move or inactivation will be reassigned by major air commands.

Officers released from active duty under this policy will be given at least 90 days' notification prior to release, with a waiver possible only upon officer's concurrence in writing.

WARRANT OFFICERS made surplus by unit inactivation will be reassigned to other units of the same or other commands at the same base to the maximum extent possible. Where an individual cannot be absorbed within the ZI command or overseas theater, reassignment instructions will be made by USAF Headquarters.

AIRMEN will be made available to units of current command of assignment or other commands at the same base or operating location and will be assigned to other local units provided they have over six months remaining on their enlistment and can be effectively utilized.

Col. Williams Is Deputy

Col. Leslie B. Williams has been assigned as Deputy CofS for Operations, replacing Col. Joe G. Gillespie, who will command the 6520th Test Group, in what is announced as the last of several staff level changes at the Air Force Cambridge Research Center, Mass.

Prior to his assignment to AFCRC, Colonel Williams headed the Directorate of Research under the Deputy Commander for Research and Development, ARDC Headquarters, Baltimore, Md.

Colonel and Mrs. Williams reside at 5 Stow street, Concord, Mass., with their sons, Derby, 15, and David B., 11. A third son, Leslie B., jr., 20, is attending the Air Force Academy.

1,000 HOUR PINS—Five of the Strategic Air Command's top B-47 crewmen were honored with membership in the B-47 1,000 Hour Club at the Offutt AFB, Nebr., headquarters last week. Presentation of the gold-filled lapel pin furnished by the Boeing Airplane Company and the SAC membership certificate was made by General Thomas S. Power (center) SAC's Commander-in-Chief. Honored as the high time B-47 men in the command were: (Left to right) Maj. Burton S. Barrett, Forbes AFB, Topeka, Kan.; Maj. Bernard Stevens, Dyess AFB, Abilene, Tex.; Lt. Col. Anton Ungstad, MacDill AFB, Tampa, Fla.; Capt. Eugene F. Moses, Schilling AFB, Salina, Kan.; and Capt. Joe A. Christie, Davis-Monthan AFB, Tucson, Ariz. The five officers were the first of 1,500 SAC crew members eligible for membership in the newly formed club and among them have a total of 10,880 flying hours in the Boeing-built Stratojets. Major Barrett leads the entire command with 2,758 B-47 hours.

Air Force Eliminates 13 Squadrons In Reserve And ANG, Leaves 39 "Stable" Wings

The Air Force announced 26 Sept. that it is inactivating some Air Reserve and Air National Guard units in a "realignment and streamlining" of its reserve forces.

This will result in a Reserve Force structure of 39 wings, totalling 128 Tactical Squadrons in addition to the existing individual Training program.

The Pentagon said "The plan will provide a stable and supportable Air Reserve Forces program of 39 operational wings well adapted to meet the military requirements, with increased emphasis on fully effective units in the Reserve components. Combat capability of the units will be increased through improved manning and equipping."

The new structure results in a net reduction of 10 Air Force Reserve squadrons and 3 Air National Guard squadrons.

These changes will result in considerable savings of wing headquarters personnel as well as funds which would be required for facilities, equipment and operations if the planned expansion of the Reserve Forces were continued, according to the announcement.

The Reservists and Air Guardsmen who are members of the inactivated units can for the most part be reassigned among remaining wings or absorbed within other Reserve Forces training elements. Maximum efforts also will be made to relocate and absorb civilian employees affected, but some permanent separations will result, it was stated.

The National Guard Bureau and Headquarters Continental Air Command, which administers the Air Reserve program, have been instructed to proceed with the inactivation and to make appropriate announcements as the reductions and reorganizations are carried out.

The following locations and organizations are affected by the realignment of the Air Reserve Forces.

New York NAS, N. Y.: Inactivate the 436th Troop Carrier Wing Headquarters and the 79th Troop Carrier Squadron.

Newcastle County Airport, Delaware: The 512th Troop Carrier Wing Headquarters and the 326th and 327th Troop Carrier Squadrons

Tight Quota Set For NPS Reserve

The Air Force has rescinded the ban on enlistment of non-prior critical skills personnel in the Reserve subject to the following limitations.

The Air Force quota set by the Department of Defense for this fiscal year is 286.

Any critical skills personnel enlisted since 30 June 1957 will be counted against the quota.

All persons enlisted in the critical skills Reserve program will be given 3 months active duty training instead of six months.

AF Starts Augmentation Program With 645 New Permanent Majors

These are the names of 645 Air Force Reserve officers on active duty—all have at least 15 years active Federal commissioned service as of 31 December 1957—who have been approved by President Eisenhower for appointment in the Regular rank of major.

They are the first Air Force officers, among more than 59,000 who applied, to be given Regular commissions under the Augmentation Law.

Final appointment is subject to Presidential nomination and Senate confirmation, as well as medical qualification.

An asterisk before an officer's name indicated that he is non-rated.

The New Man. Returned to Washington after a whirlwind tour of military bases and key industrial facilities, Mr. Neil H. McElroy takes office next week as the sixth Secretary of Defense. Everyone in the Armed Forces will wish him success.

The new Secretary will need all the good wishes and all the help he can get. Mr. McElroy, who has been accustomed as head of Procter & Gamble to big operations, will find as did Secretary Charles E. Wilson on leaving General Motors for the Pentagon, that there is nothing that quite can compare to the direction of the Armed Forces.

What will make Mr. McElroy's task difficult, aside from his lack of experience in government or first-hand knowledge of defense activities, is the fact that he inherits a military budget that is being cut drastically at a time when the resolute Soviets have made—or at least have claimed—notable gains in striking power.

When Secretary Wilson first took charge at the Pentagon in January 1953, he spoke freely and often about plans and hopes for reducing military expenditures. These plans and hopes were frustrated in part by effects of inflation. But more important was the realization by Secretary Wilson, as he came to know more and more about the over-all defense problem, that there is no cheap way to safeguard national security—and, indeed, the security of the entire free world—in the face of Communism's calculated ambition for ultimate world conquest.

The Nation will watch closely—certainly no group more closely than the Services—how Mr. McElroy takes hold in his challenging assignment. He will need time to learn his job, but the indoctrination must be accomplished at a rapid clip. Work already is well underway on the budget for fiscal year 1959. Other urgent decisions—for example, what to do about the strength of Reserve Forces—have been left for the new Secretary.

We join in wishing for him and his associates a tour of duty at the Pentagon that will be marked by major contributions to the defense of our nation.

A word more by way of farewell to Secretary Wilson. He leaves the Pentagon, after the longest service of any Secretary of Defense, having earned the respect of all his countrymen for a job "well done." Certainly, not every decision he has made has won universal endorsement, in and out of the Services.

But everyone knows—surely everyone in uniform—that Secretary Wilson has given the job all of his energies and resources. THE JOURNAL has at times criticized editorially some of his actions—the handling of the Cordier Report comes immediately to mind—but the Services are aware, as he leaves office, that Mr. Wilson fought hard for defense and for the welfare of military families. To this brave battler and to Mrs. Wilson, his courageous aide-de-camp, we wish a full measure of health and happiness.

Armed Forces Day Cuts. There are reports (THE JOURNAL 7 Sept.) that the tight budget situation may force the Services to curtail some "open house" activities in connection with celebration of Armed Forces Day. We hope effective action will be taken immediately to eliminate the danger and permit the immediate start of necessary long-range planning for a gala observance of this event throughout the Nation.

If no other source is available, we believe it is entirely appropriate that the Secretary of Defense should utilize money from his Emergency Fund.

The Nation is entitled once-a-year to see at first hand how the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard go about the job of fulfilling their vital missions. In our democracy, the effectiveness of fighting forces depends heavily on the understanding and support of the public.

It will be unfortunate if, for want of relatively small sums, the Services are forced to restrict Armed Forces Day activities. Secretary of Defense-designate Neil H. McElroy, with his long-time knowledge of the importance of public relations, should immediately make known that Armed Forces Day 1958 will be bigger and better than ever before.

READERS' VIEWS

(Letters to the Editor must have author's name and address, but name will be omitted on publication if writer so states. Longer letters may be extracted for publication.)

He Is Confused

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

With reference to the views of "PUZZLED" (14 Sept.) I am not alone puzzled but confused over this issue.

On 14 September 1948, The Adjutant General informed me I was discharged from the NGUS because of the withdrawal of Federal recognition due to my being placed on the retired list as Colonel. My temporary commission as Lt. Colonel, AUS, was to remain in effect until six months after the official end of the War. On 20 September 1948, I wrote the Secretary of the Army requesting my name be placed on the AUS Retired List effective the date following the date of withdrawal of Federal recognition as Colonel in the National Guard.

As recent as 19 August 1957 the Department of the Army wrote—

"Since 1 January 1953, officers of the National Guard of the United States whose Federal recognition is withdrawn by reason of being placed on the Army of the United States Retired List automatically become officers of the Army Reserve and upon transfer thereto they are transferred to the Retired Reserve. Prior to 1 January 1953 there were no provisions for transfer of National Guard officers to the Army Reserve with subsequent transfer to the Retired Reserve. Since you were discharged prior to 1 January 1953 you are not eligible for transfer to the Retired Reserve."

On 7 Nov. 1956, the Department also informed me that my commission in the AUS terminated 30 June 1948, based on the Comptroller's decision, dated 7 October 1954, that all AUS commissions between 7 December 1941 and 7 August 1947 terminated as of 30 June 1948. However, my commission was dated 5 July 1941.

I am denied retirement pay under the dual payment laws because the Comptroller has ruled I am not a "Colonel de jure." In other words, I am not a Colonel by any right. However, neither the Comptroller nor the War Department has ventured the opinion that I am not a "Colonel de facto;" that is actually, or a "Colonel de gratia;" that is by favor, or even a "Colonel de acquitate," that is by equity. Therefore, I am no longer an officer, even though receiving 4% of a Colonel's retirement pay. So, what am I?

I'M CONFUSED

Commentary For "Puzzled"

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I would like to add this commentary to the letter from "Puzzled" which appeared in your edition of 14 Sept. His situation again points up the inequities of the Dual Compensation law.

In "Puzzled's" case the Adjutant General ruled that the Army of the United States is not a reserve component of the Armed Services. I can only assume that when such ruling was made, the Adjutant General was Commandant Reappointed. President Eisenhower's reappointment of General Randolph McPate, USMC, for a second two-year tour as Commandant of the Marine Corps assures the continued service of an outstanding officer in a position of great responsibility. General Pate's reappointment also will contribute to continuity of service in the Joint Chiefs of Staff at a critical time in our defense effort, so acutely challenged by massive budget cuts.

General Pate joins General Maxwell D. Taylor, USA, and Admiral Arleigh Burke, USN, as holders on the Joint Chiefs. The only new appointee is General Thomas D. White, USAF, who moved up when General Nathan F. Twining, USAF, replaced Admiral Arthur Radford, USN-Ret., as JCS Chairman.

We believe that the Chiefs, generally speaking, should serve more than two years. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, early in his assignment, once suggested jokingly to newsmen that two year terms seemed sufficient for Representatives and maybe would be adequate for the Joint Chiefs.

The President and Secretary Wilson now have concluded that such a formidable task as commanding a Uniformed Service requires more than a two-year tour. We agree.

QUOTES FROM THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago (4 Oct. 1947)—"Transfer Order No. 1" the first official order of Secretary of Defense Forrestal, was made public this week transferring certain functions, units and personnel to the new Department of the Air Force.

50 Years Ago (5 Oct. 1907)—The U. S. Army balloon has made its most successful ascension. The balloon, carrying Capt. Charles deF. Chandler, USA, and J. C. McCoy, pilot, traveled eighty-seven miles across southeastern Maryland, Chesapeake Bay and nearly to the Atlantic Ocean.

90 Years Ago (5 Oct. 1867)—Antietam continues to be the apple of discord. The Governors of New York and Pennsylvania both refuse to pay over the money appropriated by their respective State Legislatures. They claim there is reason to suspect mismanagement or fraud in the disposition of the funds entrusted to the directors of the Cemetery.

fully aware that in the last few years the Congress has enacted several laws which specifically state that an officer in the Army of the United States without component, is deemed to be a member of a reserve component and is entitled to the same rights and benefits as a reserve officer. The following are a few citations to these laws: Sec. 231(k), Title 38 U.S.C.; Sec. 1036e(c)(7); Title 10 U.S.C.; Sec. 506(h), Title 10 U.S.C.

I am also an A.U.S. officer who was retired for physical disability, and I am forfeiting retirement pay because of the dual compensation laws. In view of the ruling by the Adjutant General in "Puzzled's" case, it appears that the only remedy for A.U.S. officers in the same situation is by suit in the Court of Claims. Of course, corrective legislation is in order and would be the best solution if it could be accomplished. I have made sufficient study of the applicable laws and court decisions to satisfy myself that an A.U.S. officer has a reasonable chance to win such a lawsuit. I do not have sufficient funds to individually undertake such action, but I am ready to contribute with others who may benefit, to a fund to employ an attorney for this purpose. If those who are interested will write me, I will make the effort to get the project underway.

Seven Air Squadrons Give Flying Punch To Navy's Fast Moving Air Base, USS "Sara"

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
IN THE NORWEGIAN SEA

THE fast attack carrier is the heart of NATO's Striking Fleet Atlantic and the approximately 100 fighting airplanes aboard these 60,000-ton ships are their principal reason for being.

Here on the "Sara," the world's largest ship, they like to point out that mobility is one of the attack carriers most valuable assets. Her flight deck is 176,000 square feet—approximately 4.1 acres. This size, plus the ship's ability to steam at 30 knots, they say, makes this carrier the equivalent of an air base with a runway 10,000 feet long operating as many places as the average land base.

The Saratoga is a self-sufficient air base, providing its own means of target detection, location and identification. She carries everything needed for its operations as a ship and for the operation of its aircraft.

CARRIER AIR GROUP SEVEN, aboard the Sara for Exercise Strike Back, has been busy day and night, launching and recovering aircraft at virtually all times the weather permits. Under command of Cdr. James V. Rowney, this has been a busy group participating with the other carriers in strikes against 360 targets in Denmark, Norway, Northern England and Scotland. Actually there were only 180 target sites, but each was considered as two and struck twice in order to provide the necessary number of sorties.

OPERATIONS OFFICER for the Group is LCdr. M. W. Mosser. LCdr. A. V. Boutia, is Maintenance Officer, and LCdr. M. G. Pierson Flight Surgeon. Air intelligence is handled by Lt. (jg) J. Y. Taggart, while Ensigns J. P. Manning and J. M. Morris are in charge of administration and electronics, respectively.

The strikes are made by the carrier's three attack squadrons, Heavy Attack Squadron 9 (VAH-9), based at NAS Sanford, Fla., Attack Squadron 75 (VA-75), based at NAS, Oceana, Virginia Beach, Va., and All Weather Attack Squadron 33, Det. 43 (VAAW-33), from NAS Atlantic City, N. J.

Flying the famed Douglas A3D-2 Skywarrior, VAH-9 is commanded by Cdr. William R. Hazlett. Commander Hazlett was graduated from Pennsylvania State University with a degree in agronomy, but he has stayed in the Navy for 16 years, seeing a great deal of combat in the Pacific in WWII. He won the DFC with gold star and six Air Medals, and also holds a Presidential Unit Citation. He was executive officer for the squadron until assuming command two months ago.

SUNDAY PUNCHERS is the nickname given to VA-75, which flies Douglas AD-6 Skyraiders under command of Cdr. Clifford L. Brown. Both of the attack squadrons have special weapons capabilities, which means they can carry atomic weapons.

Commander Brown, a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, has served 15 years in the Navy. His career has included duty with Experimental Squadron VX-1 at Key West, attendance at the Special Weapons School, New London, and work with the Ordnance Research Laboratory at Pennsylvania State College on the development of experimental aircraft torpedoes. He was also officer in charge, Advance Training Group 307 at Corpus Christi. He holds the Presidential Unit Citation and five battle stars.

NIGHT HAWKS is what VAAW-33 calls itself. It is equipped with Douglas AD-5Ns. Cdr. Carl G. Tiedemann, another 15-year service officer, commands the squadron. He is a graduate of Curtiss Wright University in Chicago where he received a degree in Aeronautical Engineering. His prior service includes duty as Air Operations Officer aboard the USS Coral Sea, at the Bureau of Aeronautics, and at numerous stations throughout the country.

AIRBORNE EARLY WARNING is provided by Squadron 12, Det. 43 (VAW-12) from NAS Quonset Point, R. I., which is equipped with Douglas AD-W5s. Officer in charge is LCdr James E. Boyle.

He has been in the Navy 15 years and was formerly assigned to the Navy CIC School Staff, Glenview, Ill. He holds two Air Medals and most of the major theater ribbons. The Sara's two fighter squadrons are VF-101 and VF-61, which are stationed at Jacksonville, Fla., and Virginia Beach, Va., respectively.

The Striking Force Atlantic is receiving and sending its mail while at sea by means of COD Planes—"Carrier-delivery on Board." Seven TFs, which are basically S2Fs with electronic gear removed, are used to give baggage space. It is a two engine plane manufactured by the Beech Aircraft Co. The planes took off from the carrier decks and flew to the Royal Naval Air Station at Lossiemouth in the north of Scotland where outgoing mail was picked up and flown to London for mailing. Incoming mail was flown back to the carrier.

VF-61 JOLLY ROGERS, under command of Cdr. Joseph A. Lovington, is a day interceptor unit flying McDonnell F3H-2M Demons. A graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, Commander Lovington has served with VC-4, Atlantic City, the AEC, University of California, FawTulant, Key West, and has taken post graduate work in ordnance at MIT. He holds the Navy commendation Ribbon and numerous theater ribbons.

PHOTO RECONNAISSANCE for the Sara is done by Light Photographic Squadron 62, Det 43, from NAS Jacksonville, Fla. They fly F2H-2Ps, the photo recon version of the McDonnell Banshee. Heading this unit is LCdr. Norman W. Frees, jr., holder of two DFCs and the Air Medal, plus five battle stars. He has been in the service 16 years, prior to which he attended Eastern Oregon Junior College at La Grange. Before coming to the Sara he saw duty with VT-40 in the Solomons, ATU-5, Florida, VTN-91 on USS Bonne Homme Richard, and with VC-11, San Diego.

THE GRIM REAPERS is the name chosen by VF-101 flying Douglas F4D Skyraiders under command of Cdr. Robert T. Witmer. This all weather interceptor unit has had a heavy workout during most of Strike Back.

Commander Witmer received a degree in history from Franklin Marshall College, Lancaster, Pa., before beginning his 16 years of naval service. He holds two DFCs, eight Air Medals, a Presidential Unit Citation, a letter of Commendation for outstanding service, and battle ribbons with eight stars. Before coming to VF-101 he was personnel officer at NAS Norfolk.

TECHNICAL REPRESENTATIVES of the various manufacturing firms also are with the Striking Fleet to give cooperation and help with their products. These "Tech Reps," as they are generally called, form a valuable liaison between the manufacturers and the Service officers and enlisted men actually using and maintaining the equipment under simulated war conditions.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 11
5 Oct. 1957 (Vol. 95, P. 135)

They help Service personnel with technical problems, they make recommendations to their firms as to possible modifications to make their products more useful or more easily maintained and they are valuable advisors when new equipment is in preparation.

Aboard the Saratoga, for example, the Douglas Aircraft Co., has three technical representatives who keep a close watch on the AD Skyraiders, A3D Skywarriors and F4D Skyraiders which comprise the majority of aircraft flying off the deck. They are Mr. A. A. Borty, Mr. William Arthur, and Mr. G. F. Armstrong.

Mr. L. C. Clapper is "Tech Rep" on the Saratoga for the McDonnell Aircraft Corp., maintaining a watch on the F2H Banshees and F3H Demons aboard.

The aircraft engine companies are represented by Mr. A. R. Cullum, Allison Division of General Motors; Mr. L. C. Thunder, and Mr. M. O. Stinson, Westinghouse; Mr. J. L. Lamb, Pratt & Whitney; and Mr. H. A. Kircholorfer, General Electric.

The Radio Corporation of America has Mr. S. Shura and Mr. C. Barber aboard as its Tech Reps. Hoffman Radio is represented by Mr. E. H. Selover, and Philco by Mr. Paul Byers.

SAC's New Power In Spain

by
Major General Henry K. Mooney, USAF
Commander, Sixteenth Air Force

WHEN the Sixteenth Air Force was activated in Madrid, Spain, on 15 July 1956 its primary mission was handling administrative functions in cooperation with the Joint U. S. Military Group during the Spanish base program major construction phase. Less than a year later on 1 July 1957 it became the newest and proudest member of the United States Air Force's long range jet striking force when it was operationally assigned to the Strategic Air Command.

That it was ready to join the Air Force's first team was proved by acceptance of its first operational mission three and a half weeks later when fifteen Boeing B-47's touched down at Zaragoza Air Base on a routine training exercise. This operation was in direct support of the primary mission of the command—prepare assigned units and installations to be capable of supporting a strategic air offensive and to do our part in maintaining that Power for Peace which has been the greatest deterrent to aggression that the world has known.

OPERATIONAL RESPONSIBILITY for SAC aircraft operating from the Spanish bases is also a principal mission of the Sixteenth, and the bases will be utilized for periodic deployments which will provide SAC crews with valuable mobility experience as well as operational familiarity with forward areas.

Operational responsibility for SAC aircraft operating from the Moroccan bases will be assumed by the Sixteenth Air Force as soon as programmed communications facilities have been completed. The Fifth Air Division, commanded by Brig. Gen. K. K. Compton, which was organized in 1951 to command SAC bases in Morocco, has been further assigned to the Sixteenth Air Force.

The present Moroccan bases include Sidi Slimane, commanded by Col. John J. Kunkle; Ben Guerir, commanded by Col. Andrew A. Juhasz; and Boulhaut, commanded by Maj. Herman B. Wille.

The valuable groundwork laid by the Joint U. S. Military Group in Spain, under command of Maj. Gen. August W. Kissner, permits the Sixteenth to exercise its current emergency capability. JUSMGM consummated the agreements which granted the United States the right to construct and operate the jointly utilized Spanish bases and today continues to be responsible for construction and negotiations with the Spanish government.

COLLATERAL MISSIONS of the Sixteenth are handling and establishing working agreements and procedures with JUSMGM and USAFE as well as executing Department of Air Force service support responsibilities in Spain. The command is unique in that one of its organizational components is the only air defense division in SAC. It also operates a 485-mile multi-product pipeline to supply POL products to its bases.

Currently located in two office buildings in Madrid, the headquarters will move 15 miles to Torrejon Air Base, the largest of the four SAC bases in Spain, early next year. The other bases in the system are at Zaragoza, 200 miles northeast of Madrid; Moron, 25 miles southeast of Sevilla; and San Pablo, near Sevilla.

All of the bases are still under construction but they possess an emergency capability which could be utilized immediately if necessary. Torrejon Air Base, which was only recently occupied by the 3970th Air Base Group, is commanded by Col. Joseph N. Donovan and will, when completed be one of the most modern air bases in the world.

It has the longest runway in Europe since high temperatures in the summer time and its altitude of over 2,000 feet dictated overlaying and lengthening the former Spanish runway to 13,400 feet to accommodate SAC jet operations.

Zaragoza Air Base is operated by the 3974th Air Base Squadron commanded by Col. William L. Welch. It is a double facility consisting of two parallel runways, enabling simultaneous landings and takeoffs of SAC jet bombers. The easternmost portion of the base at Sanjurjo is the site of the municipal airport and also a Spanish Air Force installation with a substantial layout of MANPOWER CUTBACKS which still will be taking place during the first half of 1958 are certain to have an adverse effect on chances for pay raise legislation next year. The point surely will be made that with reduced forces it is more important than ever to assure retention of top caliber personnel. But the counter-argument will be made that since thousands of enlisted men and officers are being released, it is not essential to change the pay scales at this time.

THE MILITARY PAY PROSPECTS, in the final analysis, undoubtedly will be tied to the fate of forthcoming civilian pay action. Then, it seems likely that the emphasis will shift from a revision of the military pay structure, as proposed by the Cordiner Committee, to a straight cost-of-living presentation.

THE FACT OF THE MATTER IS that the Pentagon, under Budget Bureau pressure, dropped the ball during the past session of Congress in not obtaining a full hearing on the Cordiner proposals, completely apart from the cost-of-living factor.

NEW SECRETARY McELROY will be asked his views on military pay the first time he meets with newsmen. He probably will defer comment on the grounds that the matter requires study, which it certainly does. But the Secretary will not be able to delay this study long; he must take some kind of a stand within 60 days, in time for the wrap-up work on the fiscal '58 budget.

SERVICE WITNESSES appearing on Capitol Hill early next year can count on stiff questioning concerning the involuntary release of thousands of officers, many of them with up to 17 years' service. Members of Congress are receiving protest letters from constituents being forced off active duty after long service. PENTAGON PERSONNEL OFFICIALS have little alternative in view of the pressure to reduce manpower, but it's a difficult procedure to convince a Congressman that a constituent who has served long and faithfully should be the victim of "RIF" action.

THE POINT CAN BE MADE—and undoubtedly will—that the Services must break contracts with thousands of enlisted men who are being forced off active duty involuntarily because of budget cuts. It is true, of course, that large numbers of these soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines lack adequate military aptitudes for reduced manning levels. Still the fact remains that these young men entered into a contractual agreement with the U. S. Government for a specified period of service, and that this contract is now being broken by the Government.

THE SERVICES MUST BE CAREFUL ALSO to make the public aware that not all men being released ahead of time are in lower aptitude categories. Many are top caliber people, who could be stigmatized in the current budget push.

THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM in the Services may be changed markedly because of budget problems. Much consideration is being given to intensified intramural-type contests at military installations, with a downgrading of emphasis on varsity-style teams, which require men to be released from duties for practice and which also run up travel costs.

PROTECTION OF TROOPS against atomic radiation is receiving priority attention in many Army R&D projects. Latest advance is a 5,000-pound lead cab, pressurized with fresh, filtered air, for bulldozer operators. It was developed at the Army Engineer R&D Laboratories, Ft. Belvoir, Va.

FREE SOAP IS SUPPLIED to the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen's Club—operated in Washington, D. C. by the wives of senior Service officers—by Lever Brothers, a competitor of Procter & Gamble. When former P&G President Neil McElroy takes the top Defense Department post, Mrs. McElroy undoubtedly will be asked to become an honorary officer in the SSM&A Club. This could mean the Club will get some additional free soap.

THE AIR FORCE WILL CLOSE a number of bases, many of them small but some of substantial size, in England, France, Germany and Italy because of budget cutbacks. There's one angle to the shut-downs overseas that makes things easier at the Pentagon; there's no need for delicate negotiations with Senators and Representatives in closing down facilities abroad.

THE BUDGET PINCH will mean a new look and a probable cutback in the Navy's Holloway Plan. It provides free tuition, fees and books—plus $600 per year—to young men selected for the ROTC program. No other Service has a comparable program. The Navy estimates that it costs $8,000 per graduate; less than 15 per cent have agreed to remain in the Navy after completion of obligated tours.

SHORTAGE OF PERSONNEL hampered full operation of the NATO Fleet exercise Strike Back. It had been decided that the entire period from 19-28 September would be under full war conditions—that is the main fleet would be subject to attack by "Orange" bombers and submarines at all times. However, short crews forced long hours, and VAdm. R. R. Pirie, Exercise Commander, ruled that during the second refueling and replenishment period, carried on north of the Arctic Circle, the war would be suspended to give the men in the Fleet a brief respite. Officers and men on duty on the flight deck worked virtually continuously, resting only in short naps.

A MAJOR NAVAL PROBLEM for which an answer was sought in NATO's Exercise Strike Back is dispersion of the Fleet for protection against air atomic attack versus concentration of forces for most effective protection against submarine attack. Best defense against the sub is to concentrate the big ships and surround them with cordons of destroyers to detect and destroy subs, but this makes them an excellent target for air attack. Striking Force Atlantic, subject to both attacks, sought to find the best possible answer.

BRITISH NAVAL AIR responsibility is split between the Royal Navy, which can operate only sea going aircraft, and the Maritime Command of the RAF, which controls land based aircraft charged with the responsibility of sea patrols and overseas strikes. Is this organization satisfactory? a Journal reporter asked Admiral Sir John Eccles of Britain's NATO naval command. His answer was an unqualified "No." He said it works well because of personalities—that is he and his RAF counterpart, Air Marshal Sir Bryan Reynolds, work in perfect cooperation. But organizationally, Sir John said, it is unsound—there should be a single head responsible for all sea warfare, whether land-based or sea-based.

Cdr. Wolf, Saratoga's Chaplain and News Reporter, Is Crew's Link To Outside World

ABOARD USS SARATOGA
IN THE NORWEGIAN SEA

PROBABLY the best known officer to the 4,000 men aboard this huge carrier is her Chaplain, Cdr. Warren L. Wolf.

Chaplain Wolf, besides his religious duties, is the ship's newscaster. He uses the public address system at least once a day with a report of what is going on concerning the ship and the exercises in which it is engaged, general and international news, and, particularly, sports news from home.

Chaplain Wolf is his own reporter and script writer. He circulates all over the ship interviewing officers who know what is going on. News reports from the Armed Forces Radio net are taped by one of the chaplain's two yeomen. In addition, during Exercise Strike Back, Chaplain Wolf attended all the briefings given for the news correspondents so that he could keep the ship's crew informed of the progress.

CHAPLAIN WOLF'S BROADCASTS constitute a big boost to morale, for few men here have any other means of knowing the purpose or results of the hard work in which they are engaged.

Most of them know only their own small tasks and are not told otherwise how it fits in with the overall objectives. In fact very many aboard have never seen the take-off or recovery of the fighting aircraft for which this ship exists.

So isolated and compartmented are the men, crew members say, that when President Eisenhower was aboard last Summer only Capt. Robert B. Moore, Commander of the Sara, members of his staff, and those whose official duties took them into the captain's area ever saw the President for the duration of the cruise.

Commander Wolf speaks with a clear, crisp, and resonant voice and intersperses his news items with touches of light humor. His broadcasts are listened to attentively by all aboard. The only other voices the men hear are when orders are passed following the sounding of the boatswain's shrill pipe.

Chaplain Wolf also has charge of issuing the "Sara Morning News" a 4 to 6 page mimeographed summary of world news, sports and ship reports.

In addition, Chaplain Wolf and his assistant, Cdr. John J. Burns, alternate in saying morning prayers over the PA system. For these, there is a cessation of all work and the men stand in reverent silence.

Chaplain Wolf, a Lutheran minister, conducts Protestant services in hangar bay three, Sunday mornings at 1000, following Sunday School services in the Crew's library. Father Burns says Mass at 0750 and 0900 in hangar bay three.

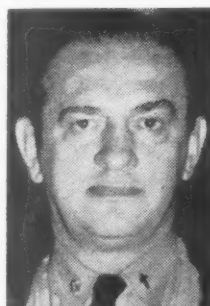

There being no rabbi aboard, services for the Jewish officers and enlisted men are conducted by Capt. Sidney I. Brodie, (MC), USN, the ship's surgeon.

THE CHAPLAIN'S OFFICE also runs the ship's library of 5,000 volumes. During Strike Back heavy use was made of the atlases and geographies by men checking the areas over which they traveled, for few of them had ever been in the Arctic before.

Chaplains Wolf and Burns are available to the men for individual counseling and they conduct classes in character guidance. They also handle messages of the American Red Cross and liaison work for the Navy Relief Society, make daily visits to the sick bay and the brig, arrange the ship's entertainment programs, and have charge of a popular disk jockey show.

Chaplain Wolf is a native of Sunbury, Pa., and went to Susquehanna University at Selinsgrove, Pa., and Gettysburg Theological Seminary. He married Miss Jordan Nimitz of Orange, Tex. He has been in the Navy 15 years, and the Sara is his third carrier, having served previously on the USS Windham Bay in World War II and USS Badoeng Strait in Korea.

Father Burns is from Dubuque, Iowa, and has been in the Navy 13 years. He served previously aboard the USS Franklin D. Roosevelt, at the Navy Training Station, Bainbridge, Md., and in Korea.

"Horrible Rule" Bars Wives At Sea, Admiral Pirie Tells The Scottish Press

ABOARD USS SARATOGA

MRS. Gertrude Pirie, wife of VAdm. Robert B. Pirie, Commander Striking Fleet Atlantic, met her husband in Scotland when his flagship, USS Northampton, arrived in the Firth of Clyde from the States preparatory to taking part in Exercise Strike Back. Mrs. Pirie visited Banff, Turiff and Thurso and shopped in Edinburgh for tweeds and tartans.

When the Admiral arrived, they played golf at Buchanan Castle. Prior to the ship's departure, the Admiral and Mrs. Pirie were hosts at an informal dinner aboard the Northampton.

In an interview with the Scottish press, Admiral Pirie was quoted as saying, "Wives are a great help at such times. I wish I could have mine with me all the time. But women and liquor are disallowed on American ships. Horrible rules, both of them."

At the conclusion of the NATO exercises, Admiral and Mrs. Pirie joined in England by their son, Lt. (jg) Pirie, jr., doing active duty aboard a submarine in the Strike Back test.

USAF Class 41-G Reunion—

The 16th anniversary reunion of the USAF Class 41-G came to a close with a dinner meeting and dance at the Bolling AFB Officers' Club, on 28 Sept., and was generally conceded the biggest and most successful reunion yet held, with more than 51 members and 34 wives attending.

Class officers elected for 1957-58 are Lt. Col. Benjamin M. Keith, president; Col. Wilson Ralston, chairman of the reunion committee; Mr. Charles H. Shuff, chairman of the membership committee; Lt. Col. James E. Hunter, treasurer; and Lt. Col. Tom L. Barrow, chairman of the publicity committee.

Organized in 1952 by Brig. Gen. Royal Hatch, Col. Robert H. Ficke and Colonel Barrow, the Class welcomes all members of the Flying School Class 41-G, whether in or out of the Service.

They Assist SSM&A Club—

Mrs. Lester Hanks, wife of Lt. Col. Hanks, USA, is Treasurer of the Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Airmen's Club. Her name, and that of Mrs. W. P. T. Hill, wife of Maj. Gen. Hill, USMC-Ret., was inadvertently omitted from the article about the SSM&A Club activities in THE JOURNAL, 28 Sept.

Both ladies have been active for many years in the operation of the Club. Mrs. Hill, past President of the Club, currently is serving as Chairman of the Budget Committee. Mrs. Hanks had served as Assistant Treasurer before she became Treasurer last April.

The Journal has moved to a new location. The address is now 1710 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, 9, D. C. Phone number is HObart 2-1220.

Families Loom Large In USA Medical Plan

Keeping the family together is one of the major problems encountered by Army Medical Service planners in their effort to provide continuing instruction for career medical officers.

Husbands, who form the nucleus of Regular Army Medical Service strength, want the educational programs arranged to permit them to have their wives with them.

As a result, the current review of career training being made by Col. Byron L. Steger, Chief of the Education and Training Division in the Army Surgeon General's Office, is paying particular attention to the family life of Medical and Dental interns and other newly-commissioned officers of the Medical Service.

Colonel Steger points out that considerable time and planning is indispensable to the progressive education of these officers while they advance to responsible, high-level positions. Throughout their Service life, medical officers must undergo many periods of instruction geared to service and professional needs.

A team of staff members from the division recently returned from Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., where they conferred with officials of the Brooke Army Medical Center. Meetings had previously been held in the office of the Surgeon General attended by representatives of the Education and Training Division, Personnel Division, and Colonels John L. Crawford and Everett G. King, Surgeon and Deputy Surgeon, respectively of the Continental Army Command.

SERVICE WIVES SALUTED—Maj. Gen. John G. Van Houten, Commanding General, Military District of Washington, congratulates members of the Armed Forces Hostess Association who were among 19 women cited for "unselfish and patriotic cooperation in fulfilling the goals and duties of the organization." Left to right, Mrs. George O'Neal, Mrs. F. P. Campbell (founder of the AFHS), Mrs. H. A. Fravel, Mrs. T. H. Stratton, Mrs. E. W. Bowen, General Van Houten, Mrs. John A. Peters, (president of the group), Mrs. R. E. Kuntz, Mrs. Paul E. Roa and Mrs. W. H. Arnstein.

AF Dental OWC Joined by Husbands—

The Air Force Dental Officers' Wives Club of Washington held an evening party, on 27 Sept., at the Bolling AFB Officers' Club, the first of several evening parties held each year, when the members are joined by their husbands.

The affair began with cocktails, followed by dinner and dancing, and at midnight, a floor show topped off a gala evening. A large turnout of new and old members and their husbands included Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Marvin E. Kennebeck, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James S. Cathroe, Col. and Mrs. Charles O'Grady and Col. and Mrs. George Moore.

Sgt. Maj. Chipps Takes Iwo Memorial Review

For the first time, a Marine enlisted man has been honored with retirement ceremonies at the Iwo Jima statue Marine Corps Memorial in Arlington, Va.

He is Sgt. Maj. J. R. M. Chipps, who was stationed at Marine Corps Headquarters before ending a 22-year career on 30 September.

The Sergeant Major was wounded at Iwo Jima during WWII while serving as acting company commander of "K" Company, 3d Battalion, 25th Marines. He was a 2d lieutenant at the time.

He also saw action on Kwajalein and Saipan during WWII, and in the Punch-bowl offensive during the Korean War. He was twice wounded at Saipan.

Sergeant Major Chipps will continue to reside in Falls Church, Va.

Nearly 100 Years Old... and Healthier than Ever!

Your JOURNAL today, in its 94th year of successful publication, is bought and read by a bigger proportion of all military officers on active duty than ever before.

Your JOURNAL today reaches more active duty military officers in each service branch... more Army officers, more Navy officers and more Air Force officers than any other A.B.C. audited business publication. ("A.B.C." stands for Audit Bureau of Circulations, nationally known publication auditing authority.)

Your JOURNAL today is the nation's most-quoted, most-authoritative publication in the military service field.

The reason for the JOURNAL's solid, continuing growth and "readership-leadership" among military officers is obvious.

The JOURNAL gives the military officer the best news coverage and analyses of subjects that concern him most.

Seek EM For Academy

All officers are urged by Headquarters to encourage qualified enlisted men to apply for the 1958 examination leading to Cadetship at the Coast Guard Academy.

Headquarters said that in view of the increased Reserve program, there will be a large potential of well-qualified enlisted men who are not aware of the opportunity.

In order to be eligible a candidate must be a high school graduate by 30 June 1958 and have completed the following credits: algebra, two; plane geometry, one; English, three; and, optional, nine. However, if a high school graduate has not completed the required 15 credits he will be considered eligible if enrolled in USAFI courses which will be completed by 1 July 1958.

Only men on active duty for more than 120 days are permitted to participate in USAFI courses.

Headquarters states that applications from EM should reach the Commandant (PTP-2) through the chain of command, by before 1 Jan. 1958.

In 1957, 65 enlisted men applied for the exams compared to 58 in 1956, 57 in 1955 and 77 in 1954. Of these numbers, seven qualified in 1957, 10 in 1956, 11 in 1955 and 15 in 1954.

Complete eligibility requirements are given in Personnel Instruction No. 38-57.

Retirements

Capt. Joseph B. Feder, heads the list of 17 Coast Guard officers who ended their careers on 1 October.

The list includes five commanders, five lieutenant commanders, three lieutenants and three chief warrants.

VAdm. Anderson Speaks At Midway Ceremony

"The Soviet Navy presents a greater threat than the combined strength of the Nazi and Imperial Japanese navies at the height of WWII," VAdm. George W. Anderson, Jr., Chief of Staff, Pacific Command, states.

He told an audience assembled at Bremerton, Wash., to view the recommissioning ceremonies of the attack aircraft carrier USS Midway, that increased communist air and naval strength in the Orient and Pacific are "irrefutable evidence" of the importance attached to those areas by the Soviets.

"Never before in history," the Admiral said, "has the cause for which the United States stands been threatened by a menace of the magnitude we face today and in the foreseeable future."

All Services Play Important Roles In Royal Couple's Visit 16-22 October

CRACK units from all the Services will play a large part in making Queen Elizabeth's whirlwind seven-day visit to the United States beginning 16 October a memorable one.

Main staging grounds for the Service units, with all the military pageantry they can muster, will be Jamestown and Williamsburg, Va., Washington, D. C., and New York City.

Featured events will include parades, honor guards, reviews and inspections of military and civilian installations.

Behind the scenes, all the Services will provide many valuable, yet unheralded services, to make the royal visit a success.

Arrangements for all the Services are being coordinated by a Pentagon committee, headed by Col. Arthur C. Tillson, USA.

Col. William G. Draper, USAF, and his crew of the Columbine III will bear the responsibility of bringing the Royal Couple from the Williamsburg celebrations to Washington, D. C., where they will be the guests of President and Mrs. Eisenhower at the White House. Other members of the Columbine's crew include Lt. Col. William W. Thomas, USAF, co-pilot; Lt. Col. Vincent Puglisi, USAF, navigator; and Warrant Officers John R. McLane and John J. Higgins.

Navy brows will probably be raised to hear that the Army will provide water transportation for the Royal Couple as they arrived in New York. Under the direction of the First Army Transportation Section, the Army Ferry "Lt. Samuel S. Coursen" will carry Queen Elizabeth from her train in Staten Island to the Battery at lower Manhattan, New York.

A special briefing for Prince Philip on International Geophysical Year preparations at the National Academy of Science will spotlight Navy missile progress in connection with the earth satellite program. Under Project Vanguard, a Navy missile will carry the IGY earth satellite into its orbit around the earth early next year.

Prince Philip will also visit the Marine Barracks in Southeast Washington, D. C., the oldest U.S. Marine post in the world, and the residence of General Randolph McC. Pate, USMC, Marine Corps Commandant. The Prince holds the title of Captain-General of the Royal Marines.

Early in her visit, the Queen will visit Arlington National Cemetery where she will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and another at the Canadian Cross in the cemetery.

Here is a run-down of the military side of the visit as far as the information was available as THE JOURNAL went to press.

Wednesday 16 October — The Royal party arrives at Patrick Henry Airport, near Williamsburg, Va., where full military honors will be rendered by elements from all Services. Included among the troops will be units of the 82d Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg, N. C., composed largely from the 1st Airborne Battle Group of the 325th Infantry, the 325th Honor Guard Platoon, Division Band, Cannoneers from Battery A, 319th Airborne Artillery. The 82d men will be commanded by Maj. Leehman C. Black, USA, S-2 of the 325th. Also participating will be soldiers from the 2d Battalion, 6th Armored Cavalry Regiment. Service units will be present from Ft. Monroe, Langley AFB and Ft. Eustis, Va.

Thursday 17 Oct. — The Queen and Prince Philip leave Williamsburg aboard the Columbine III. At 11:15 a.m. they arrive at the MATS Terminal at Washington National Airport, commanded by Col. H. E. Kreidler, USAF, 1254th Air Transportation Group. They are greeted by the President and a group of high ranking dignitaries, including Secretary of State Dulles and General and Mrs. Nathan Twining. Rendering full military honors will be a combined honor guard from all the Services, including: 1st Battle Group, 3d Infantry (Old Guard) from Ft. Myer, Va., commanded by Col. Mark Brennan; units of the 2d Armored Cavalry, Ft. Meade, Md.; Marine units from Quantico, Va.; Navy units from the Potomac River Command; and Airmen from Bolling AFB.

Later in the day, at 3 p.m., the Queen and Prince Philip arrive at Arlington National Cemetery to place wreaths at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and at the Canadian Cross.

Friday 18 Oct. — Prince Philip visits the National Academy of Sciences to meet with leaders of the American International Geophysical Year program. Highlighted will be Navy progress in Project Vanguard.

Saturday 19 Oct. — Prince Philip visits the Marine Barracks in Washington, D. C., as the guest of Marine Corps Commandant General Randolph McC. Pate. The Barracks is commanded by Col. Leonard S. Chapman, USMC.

Monday 21 Oct. — The Royal train arrives in Staten Island, N. Y., where the party will embark aboard the Army Ferry "Lt. Samuel S. Coursen" for the Battery in New York City. They will then proceed to City Hall where they will be welcomed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Full military honors will be presented by units from all the Services.

That evening the Royal party will attend a Commonwealth Ball at the 7th Regiment Armory at Park Avenue and 67th Street, New York City.

Tuesday 22 Oct. — The Royal party departs for London from Idlewild Airport.

Army Navy Air Force Journal 25
5 Oct. 1957 (Vol. 95, P. 149)

AF To Close Eight Supply, Storage Sites

The Air Force has revealed plans to shut down four supply depots and four storage stations.

The organizations to be eliminated are Gadsden AF Depot, Ala.; Memphis AF Depot, Tenn.; Shelby AF Depot, Ohio; Topeka AF Depot, Kansas; Baton Rouge AF Station, La.; Montgomery AF Station, Ala.; Slack AF Station, Shreveport, La., and Prairie Vehicle Storage Site, Prairie, Miss.

Closing down of the storage stations will be completed by FY 1960. The depots will be shut down by FY 1962.

Only 117 Air Force officers and men will be affected. The majority will be re-assigned within the Air Materiel Command; the remainder transferred to other Air Force organizations.

Navy Selects 388 EM For Bainbridge Prep

The Navy has listed the names of 388 Regular and Reserve Sailors and Leathernecks who are attending or who have received orders to attend the Naval Preparatory School, Bainbridge, Md., to prepare for the competitive Naval Academy examination to be conducted in March 1958.

The nominees include 251 from the Regular Navy, 59 from the Naval Reserve, 45 from the Regular Marine Corps and 33 from the Marine Reserve.

The Regulars qualified for Bainbridge schooling through screening examinations which were held in July. The Reservists qualified by taking the same examinations but were required to have been on active duty before 5 July 1957.

THE ARMY'S NEW MULE—A four-legged Army Mule meets three Army generals and the vice president and general manager of Willys Motors, Inc., over the Army's new four-wheel half-ton weapons carrier, the Mechanical Mule. The new gas-burning model now in production at the Willys plant in Toledo, Ohio, was formally accepted at ceremonies attended by, left to right, Lt. Gen. E. L. Cummings, Chief of Ordnance; Willys Vice President, S. A. Girard; Maj. Gen. Nelson M. Lynde, jr., Commanding General of the Ordnance Tank-Automotive Command, Detroit, and Maj. Gen. Thomas L. Sherburne, jr., Commanding General of the 101st Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell, Ky. First units will be shipped to the Screaming Eagles of the 101st Airborne Division.

Builders of Defense For All Services

BEECHCRAFT AIRCRAFT CORP. has received a $10.6 million Air Materiel Command follow-on contract for delivery of a large quantity of 1,700-gallon jettisonable fuel tanks for the B-47 medium bomber. The order follows an initial $7.5 million contract awarded in 1956.

UNION CARBIDE CORP. has developed for the Army a fuel cell that operates on air at prevailing temperatures. Described as a new power source, the first significant military application of the cell has already been made in the Signal Corps' "Silent Sentry," world's smallest radar set, at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz.

SOLAR AIRCRAFT CO. has received a $4.5 million Air Materiel Command contract for gas turbine-powered airborne generator sets and spares. Equipped with Solar's 50 h.p. Mars gas turbine engine, the sets will be installed in Boeing KC-97 Stratotankers.

In papers given at the Fall meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Hartford, Conn., Solar engineers pointed out a trend toward the use of light, efficient gas-turbine engines on small boats. Successful tests by the Navy of two Solar Jupiter T-520J 500hp engines on minesweepers were discussed during the sessions.

RYAN AERONAUTICAL CO. has announced development of an advanced version of the first electronic automatic navigator built for the Army. The new Model 108 has been installed in an Army L-20 de Havilland Beaver.

CARRIER CORP. will supply refrigerating equipment for seven additional Navy atomic submarines. This brings the total number of atomic undersea vessels for which Carrier is providing cooling to 13 of the 14 under construction.

GLADDING, McBEAN & CO. has completed the first 10 prototype "high-alumina" ceramic radomes under an Air Research and Development Command contract. They will be used on high-speed missiles.

KAISER ALUMINUM AND CHEMICAL CORP. will provide more than 600,000 pounds of corrugated aluminum roofing and flashing sheet to roof two hang-ars at Moffett Field, Calif. The new roofing is being applied by Dale Benz, Inc., of Phoenix, Calif.

WHITE SEWING MACHINE CORP.'S Apex Reinforced Division, Cleveland, Ohio, has received two Navy contracts totalling $325,000 for production of torpedo tubes and development of mine cases. The torpedo tubes, developed under a previous contract, will be used in launching torpedoes from the decks of destroyers and patrol vessels. A centrifugal casting technique will be used in developing the mine cases under the second contract. If the technique proves feasible, the Navy said, a plastic case can be produced at nominal cost without sacrificing the functional characteristics of existing equipment.

TITFLEX-7 electrical connectors are being used in liquid propellant rocket engines at Bell Aircraft Corp., Buffalo, N. Y., because of their resistance to certain acids in rocket engine control systems. Made by Titeflex, Inc., Springfield, Mass., this connector is used primarily on pressure switches and valves by Bell. The -7, which offers adequate pin spacing, is used in the harness; the control systems also require some AN connectors that are made by Titeflex.

SUMMIT INDUSTRIES, INC., Gardena, Calif., plans to do defense aircraft assembly work such as wing tips, crash pad panels, radomes, and empennage components where details of plastic and metal are used in assembly.

PRY WELDING AND MFG. CO., Modena, Pa., was awarded a $263,492 contract for repair and modification of R-4360 aircraft engine containers by Warner Robins Air Materiel Area, Ga.

MARTIN CO., Baltimore, Md., has presented what is said to be the first completely integrated missile system to a 100-man Air Force Developmental Engineering Inspection team. The company was made responsible for not only developing the Matador missile, but everything that goes with it, right down to the skill level of the airmen who will use it. Recently redesignated TM-76, the new Matador system contains the missile, launcher, prime mover and test and ground handling equipment. The system is scheduled for production in early 1958.

NSIA Says Government Fails To Give Recognition To Contractors' Risks

The National Security Industrial Association has charged that the Government does not give adequate recognition to the extraordinary risks assumed by contractors working on defense contracts.

"These risks," states a report prepared by NSIA's Renegotiation Task Committee, "are a cause of genuine concern and anxiety to contractors."

The Report, entitled "Recognition of the Risks of Government Contracting," cites two main reasons for Industry's concern:

First the fact that defense contracts "have a direct bearing on the over-all success or failure" of defense suppliers; and second, the fact that "while the Government places great emphasis upon the risk it assumes and consequently reduces profit rates, industry experience no like increases because of the special risks accepted by contractors."

The NSIA, conceived by the first Secretary of Defense, James Forrestal, in 1944, is a non-profit organization comprised of 525 American companies which provide goods and services to the Department of Defense and the Armed Forces.

THE REPORT RECOGNIZED that the Government reduces some of the risks involved by making progress payments and letting contracts, in some cases, on a cost reimbursement basis. However, the Report continues, these measures "only serve to mitigate, not eliminate, the contractor's risks."

The Report, which has been distributed to top echelons of the Defense Department and industrial leaders, states:

"If all Government procurement were made in accordance with industry purchasing practices the question of risks would probably not arise. Prices would reflect the economic factors of supply and demand and the matter of risk assumption would be considered automatically. In the end only those producers who could compete in the market place with a quality product at a competitive price, while at the same time providing for risk assumption, would long survive."

A NUMBER OF ACTUAL CASES telling of contract difficulties are included in the Committee's Report, which was prepared under Chairmanship of Sydney W. Cable of the Norden-Ketay Corp. The cases cited reveal loss of commercial markets, unrealistic delivery requirements, sub-contracting losses, design changes, and losses resulting from fluctuating defense planning.

In one case, it is reported that more than 100 engineering design changes were required which made it "physically impossible" for the company "to negotiate a complete recovery of all the expenses and loss of billings incurred."

The Report concludes:

"What is needed is a long due revision in our thinking about defense business. A framework of principles should be accepted which will assure that the potential of American industry will work just as efficiently in the defense area as it has for the nation as a whole. Private enterprise must have the opportunity to earn a sufficient return to warrant its investing personnel, facilities and money, and to warrant its taking the business risks inherent in Government contracting."

They Keep Busy

ADMIRAL ARTHUR RADFORD, USN-Ret., has been elected to the board of directors of the Philco Corp. As reported in last week's JOURNAL, he also is serving as a consultant for development of foreign and domestic business for the Bankers Trust Co. of New York City.

GENERAL LUCIUS CLAY, USA-Ret., has been named to serve as an honorary co-chairman of a committee of prominent Americans of all faiths formed to mark in the U. S. Israel's 10th anniversary as a nation next year. The group is called the American Committee for Israel's 10th Anniversary.

BRIG. GEN. JACQUARD H. ROTHCHILD, USA-RET., former CG of the Army Chemical Corps Research and Development Command, Washington, D. C., will travel abroad for several months before settling in Boulder, Colo. He plans to teach Chemical Engineering.

CAPT. JACK S. HOLTWICK, USN-Ret., will manage Section III in the Operations Department of Haller, Raymond and Brown, Inc., State College, Pa. He was formerly CofS of the National Security Agency.

COL. ROBERT C. HANES, USA, CO of the Brooklyn Army Terminal, reverted to inactive status 30 September with more than 35 years active and reserve Army service. He plans to accept the post of Terminal Superintendent with the Boise-Griffin Steamship Co., New York.

COL. HOUGHTON R. HALLOCK, USA-Ret., former Ft. Worth District Engineer for the Corps of Engineers, was elected Executive Vice-President of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation with offices in Ft. Worth.

CHAPLAIN (LT. COL.) EMIL A. ZUND, USA, Ft. Sam Houston Post Chaplain, will retire 31 October and plans to continue work in the ministry. He and his wife reside at 153 Ingram Road, San Antonio, Texas.

LT. COL. ELTON D. WINSTEAD, USA-Ret., will enroll at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, N. C., and plans to teach after receiving his degree. He resides at 1007 Corbett Ave., Wilson.

CHAPLAIN (LT. COL.) RUSSELL I. SHAY, USAF-Ret., former Installation Chaplain, Headquarters OCAMA, Tinker AFB, Okla., is now Mission Pastor of the Ebenezer Evangelical United Brethren Church, Lebanon, Pa. He and Mrs. Shay now reside in the Parsonage at 2100 Hill Street, Lebanon, Pa.

MAJ. NATHAN FINKELMAN, USA, has retired at the Philadelphia, Pa., Army Quartermaster Depot. He will continue to work at the Depot as a civilian in the Data Processing Division. Major and Mrs. Finkelman reside at 6329 Leonard Street, Philadelphia.

RESERVE AWARD—Mr. David T. Bonner, (right) President and Board Chairman of Reeves Instrument Corp., Mineola, L. I., N. Y., receives the Department of Defense Reserve Award Certificate. Making the presentation in behalf of the Secretary of Defense is Maj. Gen. Raymond E. Bell, Chief of the U. S. Army Military District, New York. The Award was for "outstanding cooperation with the Armed Forces Reserve Program."

DoD Asked To Change Navy Flight Training

The Aeronautical Training Society has asked the Defense Department to bring Navy primary flight training under a civilian contract program similar to that which is now employed by the Air Force.

Basing its request on the recommendations of a 27-page Navy-sponsored study by Robert Heller & Associates, Inc., Cleveland, the ATS cited the report's estimate that the Navy could save $6,924,000 per year by undertaking contract training. The quality of contract training provided by contract schools, said the report, "compares favorably with Navy training and is quite possibly superior."

The Heller study, which cost the Navy $40,000, recommended that "primary pilot training in the Pensacola complex should be discontinued" and that the facilities "be closed down or made available for other duty."

In a letter to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, S. J. Solomon, ATS President, said that "we feel that an unprecedented opportunity is now available to the Navy to utilize the services of two or more primary flying school contractors who now find their services to be excess to the needs of the Air Force."

ATC, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., is an association of aviation training schools, contract overhaul and repair bases, and firms offering other major aviation contract services.

Extension Courses Open

Two new courses in the fields of communications—electronics and aircraft maintenance—have been activated by the USAF Extension Course Institute, Gunter AFB, Ala.

Thirty-nine credit points for Reservists not on active duty may be obtained from the four-volume Course 3003 in the operation and maintenance of aircraft control and warning and related radars.

The two-volume Course 4304, covering the planning and organization of a ground equipment maintenance activity, carries 25 credit points for Reservists not on active duty.

Major General Mooney Tells of SAC's New Power In Spain

hangars and warehouses. This part of the installation already had a 10,000 foot hard surface runway which has been overlaid with asphalt. The southwestern runway is located at Valenzuela where a 12,200 foot runway has been constructed. Immediately south of it is the principal base administration and support area.

The southernmost USAF base in Spain is located at Moron. It is operated by the 3973d Air Base Squadron under command of Col. Charles J. Beck. There is a new 11,800 foot runway at this facility. At Zaragoza and Torrejon, existing Spanish Air Force real estate was used to the maximum extent possible but this was not possible at Moron due to the existence of a large ravine to the northeast of the base and small hills south of the runway. An indication of the splendid cooperation given the United States by the Spanish government in the entire program was the rerouting of a road and railroad around the base to provide adequate room for the new development.

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING aspects of the Sixteenth Air Force is that it contains the only air defense organization in the Strategic Air Command. The 65th Air Division, commanded by Col. Clay Tice, jr., was organized to contribute to the air defense of Spain working in conjunction with the Spanish Air Force. This air defense system will be equipped with a radar network of heavy and light stations patterned on the Air Defense Command network, employing the latest equipment and procedures developed in the United States and NATO countries.

USAF fighter units will be assigned to the division and the Spanish Air Force is scheduled to furnish nine F-86 squadrons under the Mutual Defense Assistance Pact. The first operational site will be located at Villatobas and will be operated by the 871st AC&W Squadron commanded by Lt. Col. Richard A. Ariano.

The final major component of the command is the 3977th Support Wing commanded by Col. Johnson Beyer. It logistically supports Air Force and Army units in Spain. Among the communications zone activities performed by this unit are the operation of all U. S. intra-Spain, off-base transportation and waterports at Cadiz and Barcelona; distribution of subsistence; civilian personnel program administration and operation of San Pablo Air Base, just outside of Sevilla. San Pablo is operated by the 3977th Air Base Group and is commanded by Col. Laurence J. Elbert.

THE MOST UNUSUAL ACTIVITY of the Wing is conducted by the 3977th Support Squadron (POL) under command of Lt. Col. Ralph R. Moulton. At the present time it is placing into operation the command's multi-product pipeline which runs 485-miles from Rota, diagonally through Spain, to Zaragoza. Engineering studies during the initial planning for the Spanish bases indicated the only reliable way of supplying the air bases with a continuous source of fuel in great quantities would be through a pipeline. An indication of the requirement for developing some means of transporting POL products, other than that furnished by the Spanish economy, is that a Wing of B-47's in one afternoon consumes more fuel than the entire Spanish railroad tanker fleet can transport in a month.

The Sixteenth Air Force in Spain provides the Strategic Air Command with major support for its global mission and a corresponding valuable increase in mobility and potential striking power. These forward bases are important to the Air Force because their existence permits SAC to operate with greater efficiency and greater flexibility. The bases also multiply the enemy's attacking problems.

With the exception of San Pablo, each of the bases is capable of supporting SAC bomber, fighter and tanker operations and they will rank with the best in the world. The Strategic Air Command helps diminish the danger of global war with its deterrent force. The Sixteenth Air Force is the major European component of the Strategic Air Command which is prepared to support the SAC operational capability for instant and potent retaliation against any aggressor nation which would destroy the peace of the world.

Col. Howard R. Johnson Honored At Campbell

One of America's foremost Airborne pioneers was honored 2 October at Ft. Campbell, Ky., with the dedication of a memorial to Col. Howard R. Johnson, commander of the 501st Parachute Infantry Regiment, killed in Holland 8 October 1944, just 21 days after the organization's historic Netherlands jump.

Mrs. Johnson, who resides in Bethesda, Md., attended the ceremonies at the invitation of Col. Harry W. O. Kinnard, commander of the 501st Battle Group, successor to the 501st PIR.

Marine Corps Will Reduce Strength Levels

The Marine Corps has released the following official statement in connection with new cutback orders.

THE JOURNAL last week reported in a comprehensive story the impact of the economy action on Leatherneck combat readiness.

Here is the official statement:

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has ordered the Marine Corps to cut an additional 10,000 men from its previously announced ceiling of 190,000.

The Corps has until July, 1958 to reduce its strength to 188,000, and is allowed to delay the remaining reduction until early in Fiscal Year 1959.

In announcing the latest cut, which similarly affects the other Armed Services, Secretary Wilson said, "These new objectives can be accomplished within the framework of a balanced military program and without impairment of our national security."

In amplification of the Secretary's statement, Headquarters, Marine Corps announced that the Corps will maintain three Divisions and Wings, although at somewhat reduced strength levels.

The Corps is continuing the early release of certain enlisted Marines in connection with the first personnel reduction. There will be no additional early releases necessitated by the new cut. Reductions will be accomplished by lowering recruit quotas and by reducing officer input.

New Posts For Cols.

COL. THEODORE P. COATES was recently assigned to the Atlanta, Ga. General Depot as Deputy Commander after more than three years in the Far East.

COL. ROBERT R. ROBERTSON is the new Chief of the Technical Liaison Division, Office of the Chief of Army Engineers, Washington, D. C., succeeding Col. Roswell P. Rosengren, who is returning to civilian life. Colonel Robertson was formerly the principal Corps of Engineers Representative on the Regular Army Officer Augmentation Board. He resides with his wife and daughter at 1600 23d St. South, Arlington, Va.

COL. WILLIAM H. BILLINGS has assumed command of Lawson Army Air Field, Ft. Benning, Ga., succeeding Col. Gilmon A. Huff, USA-Ret. He was formerly Assistant to the Deputy Commanding General of the Infantry Center.

1700 Navy Officers Eligible For Pay

About 1,700 present and former Navy officers who were advanced in rank during the period 1 July 1932 through 30 June 1934 but did not receive pay increases because of emergency economy legislation, are entitled to file claims.

The authority for payment of the losses is contained in Public Law 255 of the 85th Congress, approved 2 September 1957.

In general, the Law provides that officers whose original dates of commission as ensigns were earlier than 1 July 1931, and Warrant Officers who were advanced to Chief Warrant during the period 1 July 1932 through 30 June 1934 may be eligible for reimbursement.

Applications for payment should be made by letter to the General Accounting Officer, Claims Division, 441 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Applications should be received by the Comptroller General before 2 Dec. 1959.

Claims must bear the following information: officer's complete name; officer's file number; the rank to which advanced during the period stated above; the date of such rank; the duty station or stations, to which permanently attached during the period; and, the address to which the payment should be mailed.

The Navy emphasized that applications should be mailed directly to the Comptroller General and not through the chain of command.

At the same time, the Navy said, applicants should not ask the Chief of Naval Personnel to verify service record information in connection with their claims. Verifications, when necessary, will be requested by the Comptroller General from information submitted on applications.

The law provides that widows and legal representatives of deceased officers may make application.

NAVY HONORS MARINE

The destroyer escort USS Berry, being built by the American Shipbuilding Co., Lorain, Ohio, is the 43rd American ship to be named for a Marine Medal of Honor winner.

In the history of the Navy, a total of 162 ships have been named for Leatherneck heroes.

The Berry (DE-1035) was named in honor of Cpl. Charles J. Berry, who died to save fellow Marines by falling on a Japanese grenade during the fight for Iwo Jima in WWII. Corporal Berry was attached to the First Battalion, 26th Marines, Fifth Marine Division.

The USS Berry is being built in the Corporal's hometown. The destroyer is to be launched in May 1958 and commissioned in May 1959.

Helping put time on our side

Our nation's defense in the modern world requires quick, accurate communication. With time on our side, we'll be better able to meet any defense emergency.

The Teletype Model 28 Printer is helping our defense forces all over the world. It handles the flow of military information smoothly and dependably, working under all kinds of extreme climatic conditions. It works at high speed — 100 words per minute — yet needs little maintenance. In fact, the lubrication interval at 100 wpm is 1500 hours of operation! Dependability like this helps protect our nation, puts time on our side.

If you would like a copy of our booklet, "The ABC's of Teletype Equipment," write to Teletype Corporation, Dept. AN10, 4100 Fullerton Avenue, Chicago 39, Illinois.
